

Peer assessment grid – Web 2.0 Application Demonstration

For once Dr Tech is not going to do the grading – phewww! So you will need to listen carefully to the demonstrations of the Web 2.0 application and also read their weblog post carefully. Be thoughtful and objective in your grading

	Chocodreams	Ace	Draco	Lal	Coolness 16
Student /Alias
The presenter has demonstrated the tool/application so you fully understand its purpose?
The presenters weblog post, describes the positives of the web tool/application sufficiently for you to understand how you might use it outside of this classroom?
The presenter fully describes any technical terms used in a clear manner?
The presenter discusses both in the weblog/ and in the presentation the social and ethical issues related to using such a tool/application?
The presenter has described the tool /application in an unbiased way?
Has the presenter described whether this tool can be considered a Web 2.0 application?

Use the Likert type scale of assessment below to answer the questions above: -

1. Strongly Agree
2. Agree
3. Neither Agree or Disagree
4. Disagree